

ANTI-DUMPING NOTICE NO. 2013/56

Interim governance arrangements - Acting Anti-Dumping Commissioner appointed

Purpose

The purpose of this Anti-Dumping Notice (ADN) is to advise the general public that the Minister for Home Affairs (Minister) has appointed Ms Kim Farrant as acting Anti-Dumping Commissioner (Commissioner) effective 1 July 2013.

Anti-Dumping Notices

ADNs are new administrative notices that provide information on anti-dumping and countervailing cases and related issues. ADNs replace Australian Customs Dumping Notices. ADNs are accessible on the Anti-Dumping Commission's (Commission's) website at www.adcommission.gov.au.

Background

The Commissioner is the statutory head of the Commission and is appointed by the Minister. The Commissioner's position is a significant government appointment made in accordance with the process detailed at Annex J to the Cabinet Handbook (7th Edition), which is available on the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet's website at www.dpmc.gov.au.

The recruitment process for the Commissioner's position is underway and the Minister will announce the successful candidate in the near future.

Interim governance arrangements

On 1 July 2013, the Commission commenced operations. Australian Customs Dumping Notice 2013/53 provides further information on the Commission, which is available on the Commission's website.

Pending the commencement of the appointed Commissioner, interim governance arrangements for the Commission have been put in place. In late June 2013, the Minister appointed Ms Kim Farrant as the acting Commissioner. Ms Farrant's substantive position is National Manager – Policy, Anti-Dumping Commission.

Ms Farrant will act in the Commissioner's position from 1 July 2013, until the appointed Commissioner commences.
